UTMB Volunteer Is Taking Shape

More than 1500 pictures have already been processed by the staff members of the UTMB Volunteer, according to Don Anderson, editor.

Anderson said, "This is only a drop in the bucket." He said the Annual promises to be well organized and interesting with less copy and a few more pictures than usual.

The Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas, publishers of the U-TMB annual recently expressed to the staff members through Thomas Walker, manager of the yearbook division, their appreciation for the form of the book and for the order and promptness with which copy, material and proof have been sent in. Anderson stated.

Van Denburg Cuts Folk Record

Did you know we had a new celebrity on campus? Yes, we do! Miss Aaltje Van Denburg, associate professor of related art and crafts, has recorded her first album of folk songs.

The album is a 12-inch LP which contains 15 old mountain folk songs that Miss Van Denburg learned mostly in East Tennessee. She accompanied herself with the auto harp on the record.

The album will be on sale around the beginning of spring quarter when the covers for the record returns from being printed. Miss Van Denburg designed the album cover which has been entitled "Somebody's Tall and Hand some". She said that the album was given this title be-

UTMB Freshman Dies Of Injuries

James Rayne Rainey, UTMB freshman in business administration, died early Monday morning, March 7, at Baptist Hospital in Memphis.

James was injured in a car accident, February 29, while driving on the McKenzie Paris highway enroute to his father's practice at UTMB. As late as Sunday it was believed he would recover.

It was reported that the car he was driving was hit by another vehicle which was said to be exceeding the speed limit.

James was 18 years old and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Deane, of Yuma, a sister, Mrs. Jo Jo, Preder of Dresden and a step-sister who lives in Parsons.

Funeral services were to be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Clarksville. Several UTMB faculty members and students planned to attend.

A memorial service was held Monday night in the living room of the Girls' Dorm for James Rainey. David Davidson and Henry Allison were in charge of the service.

Perry Recovering From Broken Leg

Wendell Perry is convalescing in Campbell's Clinic, Memphis, following injuries sustained in an automobile wreck, February 26.

Perry was returning to Martin from McKenzie where he had taken his date to her home after the Military Ball. It was reported that he suffered a broken leg when he fell asleep and his car left the highway.

Miss Van Denburg said Mr. Riposo told her ten years ago that she should record some of her folk songs. After recording "Scarlet Ribbons" for a friend last summer, he told her again that she should make a record. She decided to do the recording of the album after the second word of encourage from Mr. Riposo of the songs during Christmas vacation. One of the right microphones used in Michael Todd's "Around the World in Eighty Days" was used in the recording. Miss Van Denburg said that it took about two days to do the recording which she enjoyed very much. She said "I really like to sing folk songs."

Marie Gordon and Virginia Brinkley furnished refreshments for the meeting. At the next regular meeting, March 17, officers for spring quarter will be elected.

Future Teachers See Lighter Side

Nancy Shore taught a history class at Martin and she was in a "fuzzy" one day trying to get a mortar shell about 1 1/2 feet long off the arm of a boy. He had put her housewife in the metal tube and had often his arm caught. It took 50 minutes to pry it out and in the meanwhile Nancy, holding around school with one high heel shoe on and one housewife off.

Nancy said, "I remember that day as if it were yesterday. I was so nervous that I didn't know what to do. I was so embarrassed that I didn't know what to do. I was so embarrassed that I didn't know what to do."

Student Library Group To Meet

This recent edition of The Record is titled "The University of Tennessee Record" and its format resembles that of a yearbook.

Engineer's Ball Set For March 26

The annual Engineer's Ball will be held at the National Guard Armory, Saturday, March 26, from 8:00 till 12:00.

Tom Lonardo and his band will provide the music for the formal dance. The engineer's sweetheart and her maid will be announced at this social.

The dance is open to all students and tickets may be purchased from any UTMB engineering student.

PUPIL GETS STUCK

Nancy Shore taught a history class at Martin and she was in a "fuzzy" one day trying to get a mortar shell about 1 1/2 feet long off the arm of a boy. ### ARE UTMB STUDENTS ALERT?

Are we as American students running out of political and social issues to get concerned about? It would seem that way after reading and considering what the University of Minnesota DAILY has to comment on student political activity here and abroad.

Following are some incidents recently reported about student political activity abroad.

"In a protest demonstration sponsored by the National Union of Students of Salvador, a manifesto was distributed which encouraged the carrying out of the Nationalist National Guard on May 15, 1959. A committee has been formed to support the student revolution in Nicaragua."

"Seven persons were killed and 50 hit by bullets as police opened fire at several places in Calcutta on squads of food agitators when included thousands of students from Calcutta colleges."

"A conflict between police and students occurred in Hiroshima. After staging a peace rally, the students had gone to the governor of Hiroshima to ask for money. He was not in his office, and the students refused to leave, so 50 policemen had to be called."

"In protest against the Japanese-American Security Pact, approximately 300,000 students from 90 universities in Japan staged demonstrations and protest marches."

"Flag-waving Panamanian students attempted to march through the canal zone, but were stopped by police after 62 persons had been injured."

The DAILY then reports that "At the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, U.S.A., the Minnesota Student Association voted unanimously to support Minnesota's participation in the Rice Book."

We might add to this comparison, "And at the University of Tennessee, Martin Branch, U.S.A., were headed a protesting term paper, final exams, waiting in line experiments, and going to classes in the snow."

Now all this isn't to say that UTMB should be come loaded with obnoxious, fanatically screaming supporters of petty causes. But it does indicate that we might look around us to see if our newspapers, television newscasts, and weekly magazines, don't give us something Bigger to think and act on occasionally.

"The mind grows by what it feeds on."

CARNICUS WAS GREAT

It doesn't take much of a mathematician to figure out that it took three student-hard work to add up to the unusually smooth-flowing Carnicus that was presented this year.

Scarcely has anything guided the party of the dancers, the humor of the clowns, the authenticity of the announcer, or the picturesque of the "Sports Then and Now" presented at the beginning of the show. And "road skill" is the best way to sum up the performances of our king and queen of Carnicus and the rope jumping and tumbling groups.

Multipled patience and endurance on the part of participants and planners alike reaped great dividends for all three performances—especially the Saturday night dress rehearsal which was performed for seniors representing a grand total of 31 different high schools.

To sum it up, few events on the UTMB campus have proven to be so useful in so many ways to so many people at one time as this physical education program. Personal satisfaction and creative outlets for participants, top entertainment for spectators, and the best kind of publicity for the whole school are all a big part of our Carnicus.

VAN DENBURG CUTS RECORD

At last those who have called for "more and more" after hearing Miss Aulie Van Denburg sing at club meetings, socials, and all can listen to her at any time they please. No, she hasn't turned her busy, popular art lab into a private music hall, but this well-loved and admired lady has recorded an album of folk songs which she has already popularized here at UTMB and which no doubt will become equally as popular elsewhere before long.

A portion of an article by Jay B. Nash which recently occurred in the Journal of Health, Physical Education and Recreation seems especially applicable to Miss Van Denburg and goes something like this:

"Who is the happy woman? She paints a picture; she sings a song; she models in clay; ...

Who's Nuts?

Must We Demand An Eye For An Eye?

Not having noticed too many folks who "live modern" demanding an eye for an eye or a tooth for a tooth lately, it seems rather paradoxical to think that in some places here in our own "civilized" United States that a life for a life is still the ancient custom.

The Caryl Chessman case which has warranted so much space in our newspapers lately has again brought to mind the long-debated argument as to the propriety of capital punishment. However, it does seem that Chessman as well as some of the legal figureheads involved have sometimes twisted the issue around. Chessman himself made a rather melodramatic issue of it—saying he'd gladly consent to die if the California legislature would repeal its capital punishment laws.

Others have made an exaggerated political issue of it. Fearing a negative South American reaction to a conviction of this man while our President was on a good will tour there wasn't the real issue as one editor has said.

The real issue in this as in all other cases involving the death penalty might well be "Haven't we in the western world progressed far enough yet to do away with such primitive punishment?"

It seems self-evident that any person mentally or emotionally distraught enough to consider taking a life will not be stopped because of fear of losing his own life. Deaths in those states still having capital punishment either equal or exceed those which do not have it.

Can two wrongs make a right?

Fashion Course To Be Offered

Home Ec 452 is being offered for the first time this spring quarter to home economics students in upper division work.

The course is being taught by Miss Anna Crookmore and will consist of a study of fashion and its influence on production, distribution and use of consumer goods. Field trips to retail stores will help acquaint the students with the American garment industry.

A laboratory period will consist of working eight hours a week in an assigned downtown Martin store. Three lecture periods per week are also required in this course. Five hours credit will be given for satisfactory completion of the course.

Or perhaps she seeks a rare stamp; she reads a good book; she sees a great play; she makes a rock garden. Or again, she works with children; she teaches youth the honor of doing their best; she teaches them to tell the truth; she is a faithful member of her church; she never fails to help other churches and organizations.

"And through all she dreams of northern lights; flowers in bloom; the pounding of the ocean surf and snow-capped peaks. She's a trooper; she'll have a hundred things yet to do when the last call comes."

U-T President To Speak At Jackson

Weakley County alumni and friends of the University of Tennessee, along with top-ranking high school seniors in the county area, will have an opportunity to hear U-T President A. D. Holt speak at a buffet dinner in Jackson on Wednesday, March 16.

The alumni get-together will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the New Southern Hotel.

John Smartt, U-T alumni secretary, said each Weakley County alumnus is urged to bring an outstanding high school senior from his area as a guest. The meeting will give these students a chance to hear about the study opportunities at the University.

Reservations for the buffet dinner may be made by contacting Phil Harris of Greenfield. Tickets are $2.50 per person.

The Vulette Is 32 Years Young

The beginning of the year 1960 marked the thirty-second anniversary of The Vulette.

The University of Tennessee Junior College catalogue for 1929-30, the third following the founding of the Junior College in 1927, announced that a weekly student publication had been organized and was being published by the student publication council under the name of The Checkerboard.

This publication was the predecessor of The Vulette and apparently was published for one year only.

The catalogue for 1929-30, the third following the founding of the Junior College in 1927, announced that a weekly student publication had been organized and was being published by the student publication council under the name of The Checkerboard.

Publication of all periodicals during the early years of the Junior College was under the supervision of the English Department.

While records are not available, it is probable that the present circulation of The Vulette of 1,250 each issue is far ahead of the circulation figures for the early days.

The publication schedule for the current year is twice monthly, and once a month for September, December, January and May.

What fellows who get too big for their breeches need is someone to kid the pants off them.

Area Journalists May Complete Two Years Here

KNOXVILLE—Aspiring West Tennessee journalists now may complete the first two years of study for a journalism degree at the University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

Two additional journalism courses—Journalism 222 and 223—have been approved for offering at the Martin Branch.

Students completing these two years may take the professional degree in journalism at the nationally accredited U-T School of Journalism in Knoxville without loss of credit.

The two new Martin Branch courses, on methods of gathering and writing news and on editing the newspaper, are being taught by Wayne Tansil, associate professor of journalism and UTMB public relations officer.

The UTMB professor was news editor and editorial writer for the Covington Leader for five years. During that time, the Tipton County newspaper won top honors in the state in news reporting and editorial writing.

Weatherman Has Been 'Snow Man'

By CHARLES LEE DUNCAN

"Everybody's talking about it. Nobody's doing a thing about it. About what? The weather." This is a musical expression everyone is familiar with. And really, what are you doing about the weather? But immediately you say "What can I do about it?" And it basically boils down to the fact that no one can do anything but think about it and observe it.

Have you observed the unusual weather on campus this year? According to Wade Freeman, superintendent of the Physical Plant, we have had two big snows this winter in comparison to the snowfall of recent years. We received six inches of snow on January 6 with previous light snows, and recently on March 1 and 2 we received 6.75 inches, with light intermediate snows between the two dates. Before the March 1 snow had time to begin to melt, it was overlaid with another one-inch snowfall on March 5.

The Commercial Appeal really hit the nose on the head when it recently published a cartoon depicting March coming in like a polar bear in contrast to its usual lion-like manner.

In all, the total number of different snowfalls for the winter at present stands at 12. Keep your fingers crossed in hopes that this is the final count.

Yet, there is one consoling fact that goes along with all of the snow, ice and freezing temperatures. Remember the slogan "If winter comes can Spring be far behind?" I think you will agree that winter has come. So now, all we have to do is wait for spring. But how long?

Man Is Brutally Beaten At Dorm

A man suffered harsh treatment under the brutal hands of students Frank Gibbs and Billy Watson, Monday afternoon in front of the Girls Dorm.

Many of the occupants of the dorm saw their only snowman of the season which had just been ingeniously built and thoughtfully placed there by Ralph Rutland and Darrell Smith, bashed to "smithereens" as the two boys stepped from their car and boldly attacked it.

Despite threatening shouts from the windows of the dorm the two perpetrated the crime and jumped back into the car and sped away.

What's the idea, boys? Every girl needs a man even if it is just a snowman and we thought it was very thoughtful of Ralph and Darrell.

On The Scene

By JIM JINKINS

I hope you made the scene for Carnicus, the Physical Education Department's big show of the season. The program was expertly put together and with Melvin Humphreys as Master of Ceremonies moved smoothly and swiftly, slowing down only for the basic stunts. I didn't have a program from last year for comparison, but it appeared to me that this year's Carnicus program was a definite improvement.

It seemed to be a little shorter and to put more emphasis on the dances and the more interesting (necessarily more advanced) stunts. The show's only real flaw was the opening attempt to move backward in time. Beside the excellent and effective decorations and costuming, it seemed unnecessary and a little pretentious.

Tommy Duncan and Kay Watkins as king and queen put on an excellent show. The folk dancers did a fine job with the Swedish weaving dance, the "Vava Vadmal." Later they performed a lively polka which was followed immediately by a satiric production of "Pink Shoe Laces." The Frolickers and the Diamond Gym Dandies, men's and women's advanced tumbling teams, showed real ability in their routines and the rope jumpers turned in a good performance with Humphrey's original routines. Monte Bayless, Ray Pollard and Melba Whitesides as the clowns kept things lively while the mats were being moved and did a routine with a "bicycle built for two." An Austrian waltz provided the climax of a really successful show.

The Sal Salvadore Jazz Quintet will give a concert in Paris, Tennessee, at 8 p.m. March 15. Student activities tickets will be required. Anyone who cannot arrange a ride should contact Mr. Stewart.

Five Star General Tom Earnest of the "Slopslangers" crowned, or rather "aproned" Ginger Turner "Miss Slopslanger of 1960" at a special ceremony in the cafeteria Monday. Alternates were "Myrt" Scott, Belinda Taylor and Harriet Gibbs. The title of Miss Slopslanger is awarded each year to the girl who is nearest in returning her tray and is most cooperative with the slopslangers.

A number of students and faculty are talking about their trip to Memphis Saturday to hear Van Cliburn. The concert cannot really be described, but it will be remembered a long time by those who heard it.

Students Dream Of Travel Abroad

(From The Christian Science Monitor, Boston, February 8, 1960. Millicent Taylor, Education Editor, "Through an Editor's Window")

"Student travel overseas, summer 1960" are magic words. They are already setting students and teachers to dreaming of lands across the seas. Whether you join a group with an organized itinerary of study and travel, travel independently, or spend most of the summer at one of the overseas universities with a week or two of travel for frosting, you are topping off your year's educational fare with a rich dessert.

Now is the time to explore next summer's many possibilities. Colleges and universities are already making up their lists for overseas study. The more popular student tours, which try to keep small, fill up fast. Passage on the jolly student ships needs to be engaged early.

You may find the perfect tour for you advertised today. In any case, however, for tour information of all sorts, including help on currency, pre-travel reading, clothing, passports, languages, and whatever else, you will want a copy of this year's "Work, Study, Travel Abroad," from the U.S. National Student Association. This pamphlet, which costs $1, is published by USNSA's Educational Travel, Inc., 20 West 38th Street, New York 18.

The addresses in it are useful to have. As a college student you can contact the student unions in all the different countries, and make detailed plans ahead of time if you are traveling independently. Restaurants, hostels, inexpensive hotels are listed. There is a section on the Festivals, too. Pages of them. Your organized tour may take in one or more, but with the list of events in all the different countries you can plan independent attendance if you are traveling that way. Seminars are listed, and summer sessions of overseas universities—many of them in cooperation with American universities. American colleges holding overseas sessions fill yet another section of this exciting booklet.

Short of funds so you can't even consider going this year? "Work, Study, Travel Abroad" even has a section on scholarships and fellowships. Yes, there are places to apply for funds. It is worth looking into, anyway. Why not?

Some young friends of mine prefer a work experience overseas—which means one of the international work camps. These take you to interesting parts of the world, doing jobs really needed, and in the company of students from many countries. The cost is less than for a tour, or can be combined with a tour. The listing of the sources for this information is an inspiration in itself. What a lot of good is done by these young people eager to be of service!

USNSA has a variety of fascinating study tours of its own to offer. These are fully described in the booklet, and in separate leaflets which are sent along on request. USNSA's tours are hosted in overseas countries by students of those countries, make use of university housing and inexpensive hostels, and are keyed to student interests and needs.

Editor's Note: UTMB students who are thinking about a European tour this summer can make arrangements simply by contacting Mrs. Katherine Cox of Union City, representative of Brownell Tours of Birmingham, Alabama. Mrs. Cox will direct a tour personally that will leave New York on the S. S. Frederica June 16 and will return August 5. Eight countries are included on the itinerary.

Test May Defer Selective Service

Applications for the April 28, 1960, administration of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

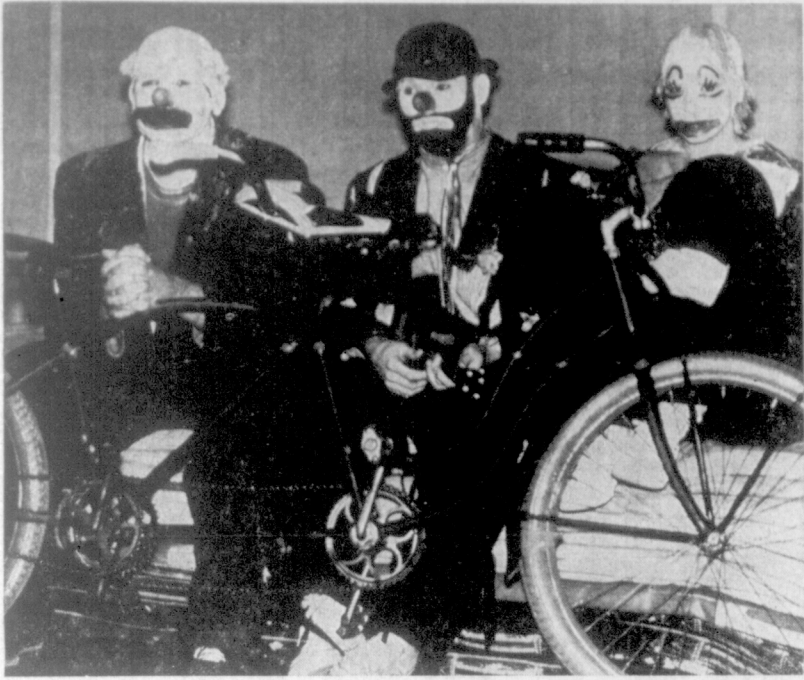

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SERVICE, P. O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the April 28 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 7, 1960.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

The girl gazed soulfully into the eyes of her new boy friend and asked: "Am I the first girl you ever kissed?" The boy thought seriously for a moment and replied: "You may be. Did you ever live in Pittsburgh?"

Ray Pollard, Monte "Emmett Kelly" Bayless and the great Lady Melba Whitesides, clown team superb, pause for a rest after doing a threesome on a bicycle built for two at Carnicus.

Gay Nineties Has Successful Showing

More than 1000 people filled the gymnasium Monday and Tuesday nights to watch the activities of the Gay Nineties Frolic, the Carnicus production for 1960.

The successful performances of the 270 UTMB students taking part were witnessed by the larger crowd Monday night.

The dress rehearsal preview Saturday night was also well attended. There were over 200 people present, and 32 high schools from over this section of the state were represented.

The two hour program of Carnicus moved along swiftly with the audience accepting with enthusiasm all the various parts of the program.

King Tommy Duncan and Queen Kay Watkins were enthusiastically received by the audience with the colorful Gay Nineties background and decorations adding to the scene.

The various types of dances included examples of the Gay Nineties as compared to the modern day. The audience seemed to favor the classy "Pink Shoe Laces" and the creative "Ways of the Wilderness".

As usual, all the tumbling acts were up to par. The audience was kept in suspense by the daring diving of both the boys and girls in the tumbling acts.

One of the highlights of the program was the clowns which kept the audience laughing during their entire act.

The entire Gay Nineties Frolic was made more effective by the colorful costumes of long dresses and pantaloons for the girls and the bow ties and side burns for the boys. The Physical Education faculty members said that they were well pleased with the attendance and performance of Carnicus as a whole.

Queen Kay Watkins and King Tommy Duncan as they appeared immediately after coronation ceremonies at Carnicus. A little later, they doffed their Gay Nineties costumes and got down to the serious business of proving their athletic royalty.

Former Student Wins 'Look' Electric Award

Miss Ann McMasters, home electrification advisor for the Pickwick Electric Co-operative at Selmer and alumna of UTMB, has been awarded the Look Magazine Special Citation for outstanding service in home lighting and wiring. This was the only award given in the Southern Region.

Miss McMasters was a student at UTMB from 1953 to 1955. While here she served as secretary-treasurer of the Home Economics Club and as a part-time worker in the Nursery School. She was also presented the West Side Grocery Award for most outstanding work in foods in the lower division.

The Look Award was presented to Miss McMasters in Philadelphia, Pa., February 27.

because they are more dexterous than men. There was also a Ludlow casting machine that was used especially for headline setting.

At exactly 4:27 p.m. the presses began to roll and in a matter of minutes the waiting paper boys had begun to deliver their evening papers to their customers.

Dr. Lantz Speaks To Veterans' Club

Dr. Leon C. Lantz, assistant professor of political science and history, spoke to the Veterans Club recently on the topic of "United States Defense."

Dr. Lantz raised the question—Is our Strategic Air Command (SAC) a sufficient deterrent to Soviet Attack? This question, he said, is now in open debate with our high-ranking governmental officials about equally divided on the matter.

Dr. Lantz also raised the question—are we guilty of duplication of effort in the Nuclear Weapons race? If we are, he said, we should seek to unite our efforts. A united military approach points the way to United States security.

Journalism Class Sees Daily Printed

By LYLE DURHAM

Members of the UTMB Journalism 222 class recently took a two and one-half hour tour of the Union City Daily Messenger plant to observe the operations of a daily newspaper.

The award-winning Daily Messenger afforded the class an opportunity to study the operations of a newspaper with all the facilities of even the larger dailies, only on a smaller scale.

The students were shown all the modern devices and instruments that have now become part of a newspaper office, and while the class looked on, the Messenger's staff constantly worked to have their paper on the street on time.

Ed Critchlow, owner and publisher of the paper, escorted the students to two machines that resembled large typewriters. The machines were the, now common, teletype machines over which the newspaper receives its Associated Press wire releases. Mr. Critchlow told the students that most of the releases come from New York except when news of local or state interest is sent from Nashville. Mr. Critchlow edits the wire service releases himself. He said that the paper receives this service between the hours of 3:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Next, the class was shown a relatively new kind of machine for making mats of pictures to be printed. The machine, called a scanograver, works on the principle of a photoelectric cell or as more commonly called, an "electric eye." The "electric eye" transmits messages from the picture, which is rotating on one end of a cylinder, to a red hot needle, which in turn burns out the picture on a special type of celluloid plastic that is rotating at the other end of the cylinder. The plastic mats may then be used to print the pictures in the newspaper.

Members of the Messenger's advertising department were next in line for the visiting journalism class, and they explained their department and then answered questions from some of the interested students.

Bill King, city editor, then showed the visiting students the Messenger's new dark room for developing pictures and then demonstrated the process of making a print from the developed negative. He told the class that because of the rush involved sometimes, it had become necessary for the paper to have its own dark room.

The students then observed the different people who worked to get the paper out. There were bookkeepers, the society editor, sports writers, and others in addition to those previously mentioned.

When the time neared for the presses to start rolling out the evening paper, the students were escorted to the composing room where they observed women linotype operators setting the type. Mr. Critchlow said that women make good linotype operators

Chenette Issues 'Play Ball' Call

A meeting of all men interested in playing baseball will be held at 5 Monday afternoon, March 14, in Room 203 of the new Administration Building. Plans for the opening of spring practice will be the main topic of the meeting, Coach Ed M. Chenette stated.

"With the weather we have been having, it is doubtful that out-door workouts can be held for another week or so," Coach Chenette stated. "The field, such as it is, is in bad shape and will have to be entirely reworked before it will be suitable for practice. We are attempting to make arrangements to use the high school gym for a week or so, since our own gym is not available, but this use is more or less dependent upon progress of Martin High's basketball team in tournament play," he added.

At present a ten-game schedule has been lined up with the opening game to be played at Austin Peay April 9. Home and home series are scheduled with Austin Peay, David Lipscomb, Belmont, Union, and Lambuth. All but Lambuth are VSAC teams with Austin Peay the one newcomer on the schedule.

"We have a few returnees from last year, but as usual have little if any idea as to what type of team we will have. We do not have a single baseball scholarship and so baseball is still in the position that football and basketball were prior to the setting up of scholarships for those two sports," Coach Chenette stated. He added that baseball did have two limited scholarships last year but these were withdrawn this year.

Practice sessions are held from 4:00 to 6:00 and men interested in playing baseball should try to arrange their schedules so that they will have these hours open, Coach Chenette concluded.

The schedule is as follows: April 8, Austin Peay, there; April 16, Belmont, here; April 19, Union, here; April 23, David Lipscomb, here; April 25, Austin Peay, here; May 3, Union, there; May 6, Belmont, there; May 9, David Lipscomb, here.

PHI SIG NEWS

It's time again to close another quarter and write it up as history. With the end of the quarter, the Phi Sigs close the pledge training and plan to take in the new activities. This past Wednesday night was the last meeting for some of the active brothers. Cotton Ray, Dwight Clark, and G. L. Teague will be the only brothers who won't be back for next quarter. Cotton, pledge trainer, announced that he would administer the final pledge test this week.

On Saturday, Feb. 27, the actives and pledges sold television stack stools in Union City. Brothers Tommy Peek and Eddie Wayne Thomas reported that the project was a success. By Saturday night the Phi Sigs had many tall tales to exchange, but all and all the day was a success, according to Howard Burns, reporter.

For the men on campus interested in pledging next quarter, there will be a class starting about the middle of March. All interested men should talk to Eddie Thomas before that date.

By next issue the new members will have been initiated and at that time they will be announced.

Football Practice Begins March 15

Spring football practice will begin officially March 15, according to head coach Robert Carroll.

The first week will be devoted to conditioning and then formal practice will start the following week. Coach Carroll said that he expects approximately 40 boys to report. One of the principal assignments will be replacing all-American fullback, Bobby Fowler. Replacements will also be needed to be found at the end and quarterback positions where graduation took a heavy toll.

Keeping House On Campus Is Not Play

One quarter of a Home Economics major's college life must be spent in a home management house. This state-ment usually brings different reactions from different people. For instance, the four girls living in the home management house this quarter have found it to be quite an experience.

Occupying "the house" this quarter are Sammie Ingram, Patterson, Mary Ida Warren, Nancy Hurst, and Mary Harding. The house supervisor is Miss Vera Burnette.

The girls say the outstanding thing for them has been the experience of actually keeping house, cleaning, planning and preparing meals every day. Besides the learning and personal experience gained there are many more incidents they will remember and laugh about for months to come. For instance, trudging through piles of snow across that field to get to classes. Accidents always happen at the most undesirable times. Say when you are really wanting to impress guests and the rolls turn out with no bottoms, just tops, no bottoms.

John H. Gallien To Demonstrate Dental Methods

John H. Gallien of Martin, a student at the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry in Memphis, has been selected by his instructors to present a demonstration of scientific materials at a meeting of dentists Monday, March 7, at Emory University in Atlanta.

Mr. Gallien was selected to present his topic, "Office Emergency Procedures," at the meeting, held annually, because of his ability and interest in this aspect of dentistry. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gallien, Sr. of Martin.

of course. Emma Sue James doesn't think she'll ever forget sitting on one of those tiny first grade chairs one day. She was observing the class, and it collapsed with her!

TEACHER IS TACKLED
And neither will Carolyn Prince forget the morning when she was tackled on her arrival to school by a couple of her third-grade boys. She was dressed up in high heel shoes and had her arms full of books and papers. She met the frozen ground with a crash and later learned that the principal had been watching out of the window.

Oh, these incidents are just a sampling of the incidents the UTMB student teachers encountered this last quarter. Granted that you can hear their typewriters clicking long hours on necessary reports, and you can see their stacks of ungraded papers, their diaries, observation records, planning data, and such. But just watch the gleam in their eyes when you ask them, "What was new at school today?" You're in for a treat!!

Best Medicine

(ACP)—From the DAILY UNIVERSE of Bingham Young University in Provo, Utah, where another such incident occurred, comes this editorial opinion:

"How many swastikas will fit in a telephone booth? This seems to be the questions currently troubling bands of pranksters, vandals and young punks over the world—from Hong Kong to Orem.

"The rash of swastika paintings and apparent anti-Semitic acts do not represent any prairie fire, flash flood type rise in anti-Jewish feeling in the world. The good-for-nothings who have perpetrated these offenses are just using what happened in a few instances in West Germany for an excuse to get attention and raise a commotion.

"Last year when a group of British students crammed themselves into a telephone booth and claimed a world record for it, students all over the world jumped on the band wagon. In the East, in California, in Australia, in Japan, students flocked to telephone booths.

"That is what has happened, we feel, in the case of the swastikas. The young punks of the world saw a chance to vent their vandalism on the public, and get recognition at the same time.

"Unlike the harmless telephone booth diversion, however, the swastika pranksters destroyed property and gouged at unhealed wounds of public sentiment.

"Taking the vandals who daubed paint on buildings and other property in the Provo-Orem area as examples, what can we see? We would hazard the opinion that whoever wrote 'down with Jews' on an Orem school would not know a Jew from any other nationality if they met one on the street. We'd venture to say that if you asked any of them, 'What is the basis of your anti-Semitic feeling?', they would say, 'Huh?'

"The best medicine for such lunk-heads would be to take them over and show them the gas chambers and the burning ovens where Hitler killed

Crazy Customs.

(ACP)—When foreign students at Oregon State College met for a panel discussion on "These Crazy American Customs," strange things came to light.

A graduate student from Nepal confessed, "Your hamburgers without ham and cheeseburgers containing meat made me very confused," reports the Daily BAROMETER. The graduate student added that his first encounter with a "hot dog" caused him to look up the definition in a dictionary.

thousands of Jews. If they had ever smelled the stench of burning human flesh or heard the screams of persons scalding to death they'd get sick every time they saw a swastika."
